Louis Keller Memorial In the Baltusrol Club

A bronze tablet to the memory of Louis Keller, the organizer of the Baltusrol Golf Club and its secretary until his death a year ago and publisher of the Social Register, has been placed in the main hall of the club house. The tablet was executed by Mr. William W. Renwick at his Short Hills studio.

Mr. Keller's connection with the Baltusrol Golf Club was of more than ordinary interest, covering as it did, the whole period of golf from its introduction in this country nearly thirty years ago. The original membership included well known players of the game. Among these were Mr. Harry Toler and Mr. Louis P. Bayard, Jr., who held the intercollegiate championship when a student at Princeton.

The old club house was a pleasant place, being a red clapboarded farm house of comfortable dimensions, once the home of Baltusrol, a Dutch farmer and landowner, before the Revolution. It stood next the present modern building, which replaced the former after its destruction by fire fifteen years ago.

Land recently purchased to the north of the club house gives opportunity for the development of two new courses of eighteen holes at a cost of about $100,000. The present membership of 750 made this an imperative acquisition.

A club dance at Baltusrol has been arranged for December 5.

Miss Emma Pattison of Summit also has arranged a series of subscription dances at Baltusrol beginning December 23.

The Halloween dance at the Short Hills Club brought the neighboring colonies together. There were several dances.

Mrs. Stephen P. Nash entertained at a buffet supper for twelve couples at her home last Tuesday.
